MISCELLANEOUS.

Ever since the establishment of the first paper on the bay of San Francisco, which we believe was the "Alta," removed from Monterey in 1849, the inhabitants of the Coast generally have been interested in the news from San Francisco. The "Alta," like many other pioneers of 40, has succumbed to the inevitable and gone over to the great majority, and, like other pioneers, has been succeeded by younger generations. The "Examiner" has taken perhaps the most prominent place in the newspaper field of late years, and its Weekly edition is very generally taken by those who want an interesting and reliable paper published at "The Bay." Everyone is familiar with the Premium Offers made by Mr. Hearst, the "Examiner's" enterprising publisher, and it is only necessary to say that this year the aggregate value of the premiums—of which there are 5,000—is $125,000, which are distributed among all the subscribers to the paper. In addition to these premiums, which range in value from 50 cents to $5.00, every subscriber receives one of the four great premium pictures, which will be mailed to him in a tube direct from the "Examiner's" office as soon as the subscription is received.

"The Retreat from Moscow," by Melmsler.

"The Roman Chariot Race," by A. Wagner.

Each of these pictures is 21x28 inches, and they are elegantly reproduced in fac simile, showing every line and color of the great originals, either one of which could not be purchased for $100.00.

"Women and Children First," by C. Napier Henry

"Christ Leaving the Praetorium," by Gustave Doré

Each of these pictures is reproduced in photograph, and is elegantly framed in fac simile, showing every line and color of the great originals, either one of which could not be purchased for $100.00.

The subscription price of the "Weekly Examiner" is $1.00, and subscriptions may be sent direct to W. H. Hearst, Publisher, San Francisco, through the Local Agent of the "Examiner" or the Postmaster.

A HELPING HAND.

A helping hand we all may give.

If but a pleasant word to say.

And something kind each day we live

To help another on the way.

A helping hand may sow the seed

From which the fruits of goodness grow.

And to the right may gently lead

The erring from the path of woe.

A helping hand to all mankind.

Among the rich, the poor, and low,

Is every day a life to live.

An act of kindness to bestow.

A helping hand we all may need.

When darkest sorrow leaves their trace.

Some one to comfort and to lead.

To give us strength and needed grace.

A helping hand wherever we go

A ray of sunshine may impart.

And but a deed of kindness show

A noble and a generous heart.

A helping hand is ever near

In passing through life's troubled tide;

When all the world seems cold and drear

Is a never-failing guide.

MAKING A SHOW.

Young Mon, Dowager of Sailing

Under False Colors.

My Uncle George was an old bachelor. Why he preferred the state of single blessedness he kept a secret, but I had his marks as a confidant.

One evening, as we sat together in my uncle's comfortable mansion, I found him in a very communicative mood, and partaking rather freely of his choice old sherry, of which he kept a good supply, and to my astonishment he launched the subject which I had promised to bring up.

"My dear boy," said he, "I suppose you have often wondered why I remained an old bachelor?"

"Yes, uncle," said I, in an airy, off-hand way which did not at all betray the depth of my curiosity. "I am sure you must have had ample opportunity to see the cream of society and make a suitable choice of a companion."

"Well," said he, "I will tell you, and the story may be a good subject for your dreams of future speculation."

"When I was a young man I was rather fond of making a good show in society. At times this was performed in a very limited capital. Shortly after I had been in New York I made the acquaintance of a beautiful and estimable young lady, Miss Clara Swan, and I lost no time in paying the way for a matrimonial alliance with her."

"One evening the subject of conversation between us ran upon operas, and the upshot of it was that I invited Clara to go to the Academy of Music the next evening. As I have said, my means were then rather limited, and now I had just enough left to pay for the tickets, but no surplus for carriages, or supper, and other necessities. With these I determined to dispense, as I thought my fair Clara was too sensible to notice the loss."

"Fortune favored me at the start; the evening was fine and the ground dry, so at the appointed time I made my appearance, dressed in the best I could afford, and waited patiently for Clara. She soon put on my fears on the carriage question to flight by assuring me that she preferred walking."

"We chatted gaily on the way to the academy, and were in due time for performance, which was the opera of 'Mephisto' with Mme. Parepa-Pare in the leading role. Of this performance I need not speak. The opera was all that we could desire, and was rendered most admirably."

"When the performance was over we descended the stairs amid the gay throng, and soon reached the sidewalk. But oh, horror of horrors! it was raining! What was I to do? To get a carriage, without having a cent to pay for it, made my blood run cold. A happy thought occurred to me in a moment, and in a nervous whisper I asked Clara if she had rubbers on."

"To my dismay she answered: 'No; my boots are very light, too, and I could not think of walking. We must get a carriage.'"

"Of course there was nothing left for me but to face the music, and I bided one of the many drivers who were anxious to get passengers. I assisted my fair Clara to a seat, and in a few moments we were whirling along through the rain. Hardly had we gone two blocks when Clara said she was hungry, and asked me to stop and get supper. My feelings can be imagined than described as I thought of my empty pockets, and tried to reason her out of eating so late at night. All my arguments were fruitless, however, for my dear Clara was not to be thwarted."

"Thinking that fortune might befriend me by some means then a mystery to me, I ordered the driver to stop at the nearest restaurant. We entered the saloon and took seats at a table in the center of the room. I determined to eat as little as possible, but Clara was not by any means so delicate, and quietly took the liberty of ordering what she wanted. In vain I looked around to see if by chance the saloon contained an acquaintance, but to my dismay not a familiar face was to be seen."

In 1857 the family was but cost $1.20. Its "McKinley price" is 65c. Here's one more straw about the effect of the McKinley bill's tobacco duties on the home tobacco industry. The fiscal year of the Danville, Va., tobacco market ended on September 30 last. The sales of the fiscal year that ended with September 30, 1890, were 21,925,076 pounds. Well, the sales of the fiscal year just ended were 19,099,289 pounds.

A simple, practical and profitable settlement of the Pratt case would be something like this, asserts Bierce in the Examiner. Let Mr. Pratt depart this life and go to Sacramento. Let Mr. Pratt, Mr. Wadsworth, Miss Whitton and Miss Barnes be buried all together in a bath-tub and sprayed to death with carbolic acid for their spiritual disinfection. Let "O. B." Brown be made a Brigadier-General for his gallantry in storming the fortress of a fool's affection, commended in general orders for his prudence in abandoning it when he found it untenable under the fire of a wife's jealousy and given a pension for his wound. It would be most injudicious to put him to death; the snakes would all come out of the grass to avenge him.

Miss Annie Hunter, a popular teacher in Cincinnati, became insane a few days since and rushed up and down the room as if pursued by a demon, and threw the pupils around like sticks of wood and beat them. Superintended hurried to the room, and was set upon by the woman. A smart struggle ensued, during which the children were dismissed.

The New York Press says that in one day it took 85,000 baskets of peaches, 150,000 pounds of grapes, 4,000 barrels of apples and 5,000 bushels of pears, besides about 10,000 barrels of other fruit to satisfy the people of that city. It cost the consumers over $100,000 to satisfy their fruit hunger for a single day.

A gold-quartz nugget of the value of $1,400 was found last week lying on the bed-rock in the Washington mine at Iowa Hill, Placer county. It had lain there for a long time and many people had walked over it. Experts say this is one of the handsomest nuggets ever found in the State.

Last week Secretary Tracy and Commodore Fulger of the Bureau Ordnance made an official visit to the ordnance department of the Bethlehem Iron Company. They witnessed the forging of the first thirteen inch gun made by the Bethlehem Iron Company.

The number of feet of lumber cut in the Truckee Valley this season is 42,000,000, of which about 14,000,000 were used in the manufacture of boxes—so says the Truckee Republican.

Clapp L. Hoover, the lately displaced Vice President of the Adams Express Company, has been attached by the company for $750,000—and thus it goes in every section of the country, stealing continually.

Edward F. Searles, relict of the late Mrs. Hopkins-Searles, is to present the town of Methuen a statue of George Washington. It will be one of the finest statues of Washington in America.

On Sunday last, at Winters, J. L. Elliott, Manager of F. B. Chandler's lumber yard, was killed by the cars. He leaves a wife and boy.

On the 7th inst., J. B. Best dropped dead at the Truckee Depot. He was bound for Sacramento. He leaves a daughter at Winters.

Mrs. Allen G. Thurman died on Saturday last, at Columbus, O., aged 80 years. Judge Thurman is much enfeebled and it is feared that he will not long survive his wife.

Edward Shade, a boy, was instantly killed, at Colfax, last week, by the discharge of his gun while hunting.

Adolph Anderson and Nelson Ahlberg, lumbermen, were killed by a falling tree near Incline, Nev., the 13th inst.

At Bradford, Pa., delegates to the W. C. T. U. State Convention were poisoned by food improperly cooked in copper kettles.

At Newark, N. J., municipal election, the Republicans gained so that the re-election of Mayor Haynes was reduced to between 500 and 600 plurality.

The Santa Ana Blade has swallowed the Free Press.

Fresno is to have the next Bankers' Convention.

MORE BOOLES.—The Chicago Times has a special dispatch from Washington, D. C., which says startling disclosures are promised in regard to smuggling opium into the country from the British possessions.

It declares that after six months' investigation the officers of the Secret Service made a pious report to the Treasury Department, showing the existence of an opium smuggling ring, which includes many prominent men and United States Government officers, and that in extent it has not been equalled since the famous whisky ring of 1876.

At least two United States Senators and five Congressmen are implicated.

At Washington, last Saturday, President Harrison addressed the Methodist Episcopal Convention, in which he said:

"Let me therefore say simply this for myself, and much more for the great body of its citizenship, the desire of America is for peace with the whole world. It may be, and it is probably true, that the devil is still being unchained, and that we shall have our gun factories, and that we shall best promote the settlement of international disputes by arbitration when it is understood that, on appeal to some other tribunal, we shall be not unprepared."

During his address, he was loudly applauded.

The way to solve the troubles in China, and all other half-civilized countries, is for the foreign powers to kill the missionaries at home, and thus relieve the pagans the job. This missionary business is a humbug from beginning to end.

What is the use of trying to teach such people Christianity? The fact is, it only gives employment to those who cannot earn a living outside of a religious cloak.

A desperate street fight occurred on the streets of Valparaiso, between American men-of-war men of the Baltimore and sailors from the Chilean ships-of-war. Three or four Americans were killed and several others injured. None of the Chileans were killed, but a number were pretty badly hurt. It is supposed the Americans were insulted, hence the fight.

J. T. E. Johnson, one of the enterprising vineyardists near Fresno, reports a remarkable yield on his place of seedless Sultana grapes. From two and one-half acres he took forty-five tons of grapes, being a yield of eighteen tons to the acre. The berries were large and perfect. The vines from which they were taken are seven years old.—Fresno Republican.

The Supreme Court has decided that witnesses must appear before the San Francisco Grand Jury and testify or suffer the penalties. A severe rebuke to Judge Murphy not to interfere with the proceedings of Judge Wallace's Court, or any other Superior Court.

An official dispatch received in London from Brazil denies that there is any truth in the alarming reports circulated regarding the condition of the country, and asserts, on the contrary, that perfect order prevails everywhere, and that the economical situation was never better.

General W. H. F. Lee, second son of General R. E. Lee, died at Ravensworth, Fairfax county, the 18th inst., aged fifty-four. He had represented his district in Congress for two terms and was a member-elect of the next House. The cause of death was heart trouble and dropsy.

The Atlantic Transfers Line of steamers from London announces that it will carry free of cost "handy packages" containing exhibits for the World's Fair. The handy packages are supposed to weigh from 200 to 300 pounds.

James Barton, the Author suddenly died, on Saturday last, at Newburyport, Mass., aged 69 years. His wife was the sister of N. P. Willis, and under the pseudonym of Fanny Fern she was very popular.

Officials of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company have announced that they have decided to issue $3,000,000 in debenture bonds for the purpose of building three new steamers for the China trade, if the company succeeds in obtaining the contract for mail service from the Government. It is a mistake to think that negotiations have been closed between the Pacific Mail and the Chinese and Oriental companies by which the latter company will discontinue operations, leaving the Pacific Mail alone in the field. The Pacific Mail will then double its service, making twenty-six trips per year hereafter. The new steamers are intended to be the fastest in the China trade.

While Richard White, a compositor on the Nevada City Daily Transcript, Sunday afternoon, was quail hunting his gun exploded, driving the breech of the weapon into his breast, inflicting injuries which will probably result fatally.

The ladies of Mexico, headed by the President's wife had a bull fight for the benefit of the sufferers of the drought in Spain. Nine bulls of celebrated breed were killed, and the admission fees amounted to $25,000.

SUMMONS.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the said County of Alpine, State of California, and the Complaint filed therein, within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within the County of Alpine; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment against you, requiring the title of plaintiff in and to, and adjudging him to be the owner, and entitled to the possession of that certain parcel of mining ground situated in the Hope Valley and Blue Lake Mining District, formerly known as the "Alpine" Quartz Mining Claim, claimed by you defendant, and is described as follows, to wit: Beginning at a point on the Northwest boundary of the said mining claim, claimed by defendant, where it is intersected by the Northeast boundary of the Quartz Mining Claim of plaintiff; thence, Var. 10° 30' E., 1st. 8.39' E. 22.72' E. to point; thence, 3d. N. 86° W. 22.72' E. to point; thence, 4th. N. 31° E. 6.50' E. to point of beginning; from which point of beginning, the N. W. Corner of the said Mining Claim of plaintiff bears North, 69° W. 4.18' E. distant, containing an area of 19.51 acres. Also, to have any pretended claim or estate of defendant, or either of them in or to said parcel of ground adjudged void and for costs of suit, as will more fully appear by reference to the Complaint on file herein, reference to which is hereby expressly made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said Complaint, as above required, said Plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in said Complaint.

Witness my hand and Seal of the Superior Court of the said County of Alpine, State of California, this 24th day of September, A. D. 1891.

DECEASED.—On Thursday morning at one o'clock, after a brief illness of seven hours, Mildred Mable, daughter of Lewis E. and Belle Murphy, departed this life at the age of two years and six months. At four o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, while playing under a table, she struck the top of her head against the bed, and, after crying a short time, resumed playing, but at six o'clock commenced retching. For some time she was cold and unconscious, but revived at nine o'clock, and asked for her doll, which was given her. She lingered until one o'clock when she quietly passed away. The interment took place at eleven o'clock, on Friday, and was largely attended, thirty-two vehicles being in line. Chas. L. Hayes read the Episcopal service, and the choir rendered "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Go Bury Thy Sorrow," at the residence; and "Only a Little Child," was given at the cemetery by the choir. The parents have the sympathy of our people.

FIRE FAULT.—On Saturday last there was shipped from Mrs. S. J. Folger's Knickerbocker Orchard, in Sonoma county, jared fruit for the following residents of Bridgeport: R. Barnard, J. A. Brown, A. F. Bryant, M. J. Cody, Mrs. Donnel, R. M. & A. C. Folger, David Hays, M. P. Hays, F. M. Richardson, Z. B. Tinkum and Judge Virden. This fruit is "Orchard packed," and within from twenty minutes to half an hour is in the patent jars, and this is the work of ladies—not the work of cannery men, boys and girls. And it is only put up from orders, and its reputation as the best of preserves is first-class.

TAXES.—Thus far the taxes have been paid in full, the payers not availing themselves of the installment privilege. The fact is the bulk of the assessments in this county is on personal property, and as this has to be paid in full, the one-half of the real estate exhibits but a small margin.

IMPROVEMENTS.—During the past three weeks the hammer and saw have been heard at Lewis Ladd and James Logan's houses, and the Chronicle-Union building, and the work goes on.

WEDDINGS.—On the 11th of November, County Clerk John D. Murphy and Miss Clara E. Donnel, and on the 17th, Willie J. Sinclair and Miss Nellie Green, of Sweetwater, will be married.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. T. Lloyd Bradley will hold service at the School House to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Life in the logging-camps among the California redwoods is full of strange and thrilling incidents, one of which is the subject of a clever story in the Argonaut of October 26th. It is entitled "As the Tree Falls," and relates the tragic death of a young man, whose brief past is a mystery to his companions. The author, whose pseudonym is "Baru Savage," had another picture of life among the "wood-butcherers," as he calls them, in the Argonaut several months ago.

The Grady monument was unveiled at Atlanta Ga., Wednesday, with imposing ceremonies. Governor Hill of New York delivered the oration.

The celebrated Anaconda Copper Mine, in Montana, is to be started up again, and give employment to 3,000 men. Raggin is going to build a railroad from it to Butte City, a distance of 25 miles.

A seizure of 40,000 fraudulently stamped cigars was made on the 14th, at the auction rooms of Davis, Haber & Co., San Francisco. The cigars were branded as coming from the factory of Goldanza & Enters, St. Augustine, Fla., but when the revenue officials wired that firm the reply was returned that the cigars had not been made by them, and that twenty million fraudulent cigars bearing the firm's brand had been disposed of by unknown parties in and around San Francisco. Investigation showed that the cigars seized on Friday had been consigned to Davis, Haber & Co. by a New York firm, and that many of them had been made by Chinese manufacturers in this city and had been sent East, whence they were reshipped.

On Tuesday, Sunol beat the world's record on the Stockton track, making a mile in 2:08 1/2, beating Maud S's time half a second. It was a fast mile from the start, and the mare finished strong. After warming her up in a three mile jogging and a rubbing down, Marvin came out at 5 o'clock that afternoon in a go against the record. The wind had died down to a breeze. On the first attempt he noddled for the word and she went away alone, a runner waiting at the half for her. She went the first quarter in 31 1/2, the half in 1:04, the three-quarters in 1:37, and came home strong and proud in 2:08 1/2. There were six timers, and every watch was the same. The crowd went wild.

On Saturday last, the President visited the navy yard for the purpose of witnessing a hydraulic mounting of one of the twelve-inch guns intended for the Monterey, and the largest gun ever made for the United States navy. The Monterey is being constructed at the Union Iron Works, San Francisco. The length of the gun is thirty-seven feet, and it is designed to propel an 800-pound projectile twelve miles, necessitating a powder charge of 600 pounds.

Telegrams are being received from Boston capitalists, seeking information about the Temescal tin mines. This important industry is awakening interest throughout the entire East. Not a day passes without letters, telegrams and samples of old tin being forwarded to political and financial centers beyond the Rocky Mountains. Massachusetts and Ohio have called for most of this information so far.

Major-General Schofield, commanding the army, in his annual report calls attention to the fact that in case of a general Indian uprising, the entire army would be inadequate to prevent great loss of life. He advocates the increase of a few thousand men, whereby a sufficient force may be at all times stationed near large reservations and thus prevent outbreaks.

A prominent citizen of Warren county, Ohio, lately contracted for 300,000 tin cans for sweet corn, to be made entirely of American material and by American labor, at $1.87 per hundred. Last year the same man paid for cans made from imported tin plate $2.25 per hundred. Tin! tin!! American tin!!!

On Wednesday Secretary Blaine and wife, James G. Blaine, Jr., and Miss Hattie Blaine, with servants and baggage, left in a private car for Washington.

The Freeman's Journal of the 21st, says the speeches made by members of the National League rendered hopeless all ideas of peace and conciliation.

MASON VALLEY.

Barney Reymers is cutting his third crop of alfalfa.

It is believed that 20,000 head of sheep will be driven into the Valley this winter to feed.

Mr. Brooks, the Oakland butcher, will feed from 700 to 800 head of cattle in the Valley this winter.

The apple crop is so large that all the fruit cannot be sold, and a great deal of it will be made into cider.

J. W. Adams drove over 800 head of cattle into the Valley this week to feed there this winter. Mr. Evans, of Reno, also took in about 500 head.

Kuhlman, of the Douglas County Creamery, contemplates establishing a creamery in the Valley, if sufficient encouragement is evident.

Wade Hampton says that the Farmers' Alliance, down South, will go to pieces within the next four years.

F. A. Howard, a pioneer of Amador county and a member of the Board of Supervisors, died at Sutter Creek, Sunday, aged 58 years.

A diamond vein, 60 feet in width, has been discovered near Gold Hill, Or. The ore is immensely rich.

SCHIEFF'S PHOTOGRAPH OF THE WORLD.—The well known Agent and Canvaser, Harrison McCamy, is soliciting subscribers for Schieff's Photograph of the World, one of the most artistic publications of the age. In the preparation of this immense work, the Schieff Brothers, of Philadelphia sent to every section of the world the most renowned artists at expense of $100,000, and we judge from a cursory view of the circular, that their work has been well and faithfully done. Picturesque scenery, celebrated paintings, statuary, are given with the unerring accuracy that only art photography, in its best dress, can give. The work is the world in miniature; the pictures are an enlarged size, 6 1/2 inches, while the book will be 9 1/2 inches. It will be delivered to subscribers in two months upwards, not exceeding 6 months, from November 1st, 1891, in bindings plain, elegant and durable at prices corresponding with the times. We bespeak for the work, and believe it will receive an immense patronage. The explanations in the work accompanying the illustrations will be rendered in both English and German, thus making it more attractive in general.

SERIOUS DANGER.

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region of country where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Malarial fever is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Its regularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the invasions of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

DEATER.

MURPHY.—In Bridgeport, October 22, 1891, at 1 o'clock A. M., Mildred Mabel, daughter of Louis E. and Belle Murphy, aged 2 years and 6 months.

BERTLAND.—Near Benton, October 5th, Willie, only son of Oliver and Mary C. Bertrand, aged 8 years, 5 months and 15 days.

FATE IN TEACUP.

spoiling Couples Should Learn All Their Lessons by Heart.

Here are a few old superstitions regarding the ever-friendly cup that cheers. If while the tea is being made and the lid which has been removed to pour in the water, is forgotten, it is a sure sign that some one will "drop in to tea."

If a single person happens to have two spoons in his or her sugar, it is a prediction that the fortunate (or unfortunate?) drinker of that particular cup will be married within a year from that date.

If you put cream in your cup before the sugar it will "cross your love," so be very careful.

If a teacup floats in the cup, it is called a "bean" and when this is seen unmarried women should stir their tea very quickly round and round, and then hold the spoon upright in the center of the cup. If the "bean" is attracted to the spoon and clings to it, he will be sure to end very shortly, if not that same evening, but if the stalk goes to the side of the cup he will not come.

Examine the tea leaves in your cup if you are peevish enough to boil your tea instead of drawing it in the refined and dainty fashion, for a lot of leaves mean money and fortune.

If you want to know how many years will elapse before you may expect to be married, balance your spoon on the edge of your cup, first noting that it is perfectly dry. Fill another spoon partly with tea, and holding it above the balanced spoon, let the drops of the tea gather to the tip of the spoon and gently fall into the bowl of the one below. Count the drops—each one stands for a year.

It is a sign of fair weather if the cluster of small air bubbles formed by the sugar collect and remain in the center of the cup. If they rush to the sides it will surely rain before night.

When toast is made, three or four thin slices of bread must be cut the whole length of the loaf, and placed one over the other. This done, they must all be cut in half with one sweep of the knife. If this is done by a young woman, and the slices are served clean through to the plate, she will not be married within the year; if the bread parts in two even halves, she might as well order her trousseau. On no account must she take the last piece of toast or bread on the plate, unless she wishes to be an old maid. — N. Y. Advertiser.

NOSE AND EAR PIERCING.

Odd Ornaments Worn by the Savage Races.

The ornaments put through the walls of the nose vary greatly. There may be but one perforation in each wall or there may be several. In New Zealand and flowers, in New Guinea, a bone's tusk, in the Solomon Islands a crab's claw, in New Britain thorns, set upright, are the objects thus worn. These are all original and primitive; after the natives come in contact with whites, they give place to metal buttons and rings. In the Sturges collection is a rather pretty "nose-ornament" from New Guinea. It is V-shaped, and the arms fit by studs, one into each wall of the nose.

Nose ornaments were known to the Jews of the exile—Ezekiel, xvi, 12: "And I will put a jewel on thy nose" and Isaiah lii, 21: "Thou rings and nose jewels." The cheeks are pierced by some Eskimos, who wear little round stud buttons in the holes. Ears are pierced the world over. A few cannot suffice. Schweinfurth says that Babuiker women pierce the rim of the ears repeatedly and wear therein bits of straw an inch in length, having twenty such, perhaps, in each ear. This repeated piercing of the ear is common among barbarous people, and we have seen a woman of the Sea and Fox Indians who wore seven brass rings in one ear. Ears may be slit and stretched instead of pierced. They then hang in long loops. Catlin gives a picture of an Indian whose beauty had been increased in this way. The Anchorite islander slits his ears while the Fijian often has them slit and stretched to such an extent that the two fists might be placed in the openings. Slit ears may be of practical use. The Kafir carries his snuff-box in his ear-hole, and Captain Cook figures a Mangala islander who carried a large knife in his right ear. Prof. Frederick Starr, in Popular Science Monthly.

A Clown Goat.

Richmond, Me., is the home of a clown goat which is a source of amusement all along the Kennebec. He is a pet among the steamboat men and a regular visitor at the wharf when steamers arrive or depart. One day last week Billy's owner missed him, but two days afterward, when the steamer Kennebec arrived, the goat walked calmly down the gangplank, dressed in a pair of old trousers, a swallowtail coat and a stovepipe hat. He had been in Boston with his friends, the deck hands, and came home with an increased dignity of bearing naturally consequent upon a visit to that learned town. When a lady in the waiting-room petted him the goat whipped her veil from her face and swallowed it up in a twinkling. Then he went home in his new togs, which he has probably since eaten.

New Word in Kansas.

An expressive phrase has been coined to meet the Kansas City situation. It is "a whereas." Somebody inquires after the financial standing of John Smith. "John Smith?" somebody else replies. "Oh, he is 'a whereas.'" The phrase is in common use. A stranger is not long in learning the meaning. "A whereas" is a man who has had a piece of property sold out by the sheriff to satisfy a mortgage. One can readily trace the derivation by thinking for a moment of the form in which sheriffs' sales are advertised. "Whereas, John Smith, by his certain deed of trust," and so on and so on. That is the way the official information starts off, and that is why John Smith is called "a whereas."

MILITARY ACTIVITIES.

Numerous desertions from the army are alarming the Italian government. The causes are arrears in pay and poor food.

The French army has 131,000 horses, 15,000 of which are substitutes. The appropriation for them this year is $400,000 more than it was last year.

Beside the warships for which the minister of war has contracted in foreign countries, all the Russian shipyards, as Novoye Vremya reports, are busy building war vessels of various sizes.

A new steel cuirass, impenetrable to the bullets of a rifle and covering the chest only, will be introduced in the Austrian army, and perhaps throughout the armies of the triple alliance. It can be folded up and packed in an ordinary knapsack.

Russia has been experimenting with a movable pigeon loft, from which dispatches are sent by pigeons to various parts of an army camp. Army officers are also training falcons to catch pigeons, so that in case of war the former can capture the enemy's messenger birds.

The largest steel cannon ever made in this country has arrived at Sandy Hook from the Watervliet arsenal, Troy, where it was forged. It is 410 inches long, weighs 52 tons, and has a bore of 12 inches. It throws a projectile weighing 4,000 pounds, and each charge will cost $250.

GENIUS IN THE WORKSHOP.

A novelty in men's hats is a facsimile of the "stove pipe" made of straw.

A Swedish cavalry officer has invented a hussar's shoe on which the calks and clips are changeable.

A CLEVELAND (O.) man has taken out a patent on a glass top for roll top desks to enable the owner to see if he has forgotten anything without having to open the desk.

A TOILET brush is made of two halves which are hinged and are detachable, one half being the brush and the other half the mirror, while in the space between is a comb, a tooth-brush and a button-hook.

A MAN in Muskegon, Mich., has gone to making caps of his own invention, which can be sold two for five cents, or thirty cents a dozen—so cheap that people will throw them away, instead of cleaning them, after use.

A BATTLE CREEK (Mich.) man has patented a typewriter for medical campers. The copy which it makes can be photographed and a plate reproduced for printing which is said to be much better than plates made in the ordinary way.

FOR FAIR READERS.

A XENIX in San Francisco, who is a poor widow with three children, has been compelled to sell forty-five square inches of her skin to surgeons for one hundred dollars. There is heroism for you!

A YOUNG girl of fourteen has died at Dusseldorf from excessive joy. She had been promised one of the most delightful of Rhine excursions, and the prospect filled her with such overpowering joy as to produce a strain upon the heart's action, and she fell to the floor and died.

A CINCINNATI lady has a rat's nest valued at $25. The nest was composed of bank bills to that amount, which the rodent had torn into small fragments. She was advised to make an affidavit to the fact and forward it, together with her very valuable rat domicile, to the treasury department at Washington.

THE WORK-A-DAY WORLD.

DAYBURY, Conn., made over six million hats last year.

In European Russia there are two hundred and twenty-three beet sugar factories.

SIXTY thousand tons of Coles are used for bottled beer consumed annually in England.

A COMPANY has been organized in Kansas City to furnish cold fresh air during the summer and hot air in the winter.

The daily consumption of coal in Pittsburgh even now, with the large amount of natural gas that is used, is over six thousand tons.

The statistics of the trade show that there are nearly four hundred arm guns made daily in this country. Michigan works supply a large proportion.

ONE half factory at Holliston, Mass., has for twenty years turned out sixty tons of nails per month, and sold its entire production for New England consumption.

QUEER AND QUIANT.

At St. Helen, Cal., there is a book agent who is ninety-two years old and who was never shot at, thrown through a window or worried by a dog in all his long experience. They must be a very patient people out there.

A FOLDING bed closed with a snap the other night in Washington, and for ten minutes securely held its occupant in a tight embrace, standing on his head. When his screams brought assistance he was almost unconscious.

A MAINE farmer recently sent a ten-cent stamp to a man who advertised to send for that amount the way to run a farm without being troubled with potato bugs. The answer received was as follows: "Plant fruit trees instead of potatoes."

In a town in central Vermont the authorities take so much care of the only strip of concrete sidewalk in the village that on very hot days it is roped off and pedestrians are compelled to walk in the street lest their boot heels dig holes in the soft tar.

A MILLION ADRIFT.

The Strange Story of a Mississippi River Flood.

How a Poor French Settler Became a Millionaire for Two Hours and Without Being Aware of It.

In the south end of the city, commonly called Carondelet, but which at one time bore the very significant name of Vide Poche (empty pocket), there resides one of the early French settlers, Joe Marshall by name, says the St. Louis Republic. "Old Joe," as he is called by everyone, is one of those unfortunate Frenchmen who settled in Carondelet while it was yet a burg of some six or seven houses. He acquired a great deal of property, as did all the old creoles, and when a more active civilization encroached upon the district and the property began to be worth something, he lost it all through carelessness and bad management. It may not be generally known that Joe was a millionaire for two whole hours at one time, and the circumstances of his rise and fall are best told in his own words.

"It was in the summer of 1832—I was on the river then. The river was beginning and it was unsafe to go out in a small boat. That was in the early steamboat times when everyone traveled by river, and the wharf in St. Louis was lined with boats which stuck their bows so close together in order to get to the wharf at all, that they formed a wall along the river front, and when a fire broke out on one boat the others were so tightly wedged in that escape was impossible. It had been storming all day, and in the evening the river was a raging torrent, ready to tear away its banks or to dash the huge trees that had been uprooted by it in its mad course through the hall of the steamer that ventured from the bank out into mid-stream.

"About nine o'clock that evening a fire broke out on the levee among the boats. There was a panic. Some of the passengers who were spending the night on the boats in order to make sure of their staterooms lost their lives in the panic which followed, and others left their valuables. The loss was immense, both of life and of property. The red glare of the fire was distinctly visible in Vide Poche, and I and my partner sat up and kept watch on the river, expecting to see some of the passengers of the burning boats drift by, and to rescue them if possible. We waited long, but no victims of the fire came. At last as we were about to give up the watch, we saw out in the current a dark object that appeared to be a raft. It shot swiftly into view, and as it passed we could see the white face of a man holding on to a raft which he had constructed of four life preservers, and on which he floated a large chest, which, from the care he had taken to place it in safety at the risk of his own life, we judged to be very valuable. We resolved to save him if possible, and jumping into our skiff we pulled toward him. At that time the raft was caught in one of the whirlpools below the Elwood street dike and was broken to pieces. The man lost his hold and was swallowed in the vortex, while the chest, too, went down. We rowed about the spot to pick up the life preservers, which had been separated, and in picking up the second one found a rope attached to it. My partner wanted to cut it, but I stopped him and told him to save the rope, as it might be useful. He commenced pulling it in, but before he had gotten much of it in the boat he called me to his assistance, and we worked away pulling in the dead weight at the other end of the rope.

"Finally the task was finished, and, as a reward, instead of the body of the man whom we had just saved, before our eyes, we found the chest which he valued more than his life. We hauled it ashore with many misgivings, and I did not open it, but put it carefully before my shanty. "The next day I had plenty to do picking up wreckage and watching for the bodies of those who had perished on the boats. About five o'clock in the evening a gentleman drove down to the shanty. He seemed greatly excited. He was accompanied by a constable. They asked me if I had seen a chest floating down the river. Well, to make a long story short, the man was the owner of the chest, which contained his whole fortune—more than a million. The man who was drowned was his brother, who had locked him in his stateroom to perish and tried to make off with the treasure in the way described.

"I told him of his brother's death, and he remarked: 'Poor fellow, I forgive him and shall not tell father of his attempted crime.' He was a member of one of the best families of the city at the time, and after taking me to the nearest saloon, where we had the best in the house, he gave me five thousand dollars to keep the whole affair quiet and not let his name be known. What did I do with the five thousand dollars? I lived like a gentleman on it for a year.

"Did I ever see the gentleman again? Yes, quite often. He is one of the leading men of St. Louis to-day."

Sublime Assurance.

The nerviest man in America has been discovered. He is a tramp, and when last seen was disappearing around a corner in Topeka, Kan., one day lately. He had entered a restaurant and had ordered an elaborate meal.

After eating it with great relish he took his check, walked to the cashier's desk and coolly informed him that he had no money. The cashier put his hand to a shelf under the desk, produced a pistol and ordered the man to pay. "What's that?" the tramp asked, pointing to the pistol. "That, sir," answered the other, "is a revolver." An expression of relief came over the man's face as he replied: "Oh, I don't care a straw for a revolver; I thought it was a stomach pump. Good afternoon." And he walked out before the astonished cashier could rally from his surprise.

FOODS OF THE FUTURE.

Nuts One of the Most Valuable—Large Returns from Their Culture.

Learned men of the present day are much exercised about the kind of food necessary to produce the greatest amount of muscular health and strength, says Vick's Magazine, and nuts of all kinds have been pronounced by them par excellence as an article of diet. Besides the beauty of nut trees and the gastronomic utility of their fruits, nut plantations seem to be rapidly making fortunes for those who have been sage enough to invest in them.

Chief Van Dieman, of the department of agriculture, predicts that the cultivation of nuts will soon be one of the greatest and most profitable industries in the United States. The large returns from individual trees and immense profits from established orchards have stimulated the interest, and our foremost enterprising fruit growers are planting nut trees largely for market purposes; others who enjoy nuts during the winter are realizing that they may be had in abundance for the mere trouble of planting.

"The pecan is the nut of the future," Mr. Van Dieman thinks, but he forecasts large returns from walnuts, chestnuts, pine and hazelnuts, almonds, filberts, etc. "A grower in Florida has now a grove of four thousand pecan trees six years old; when they begin to bear their product will be worth one hundred thousand dollars yearly at wholesale." But this is counting chickens too soon. "C. H. Daniels, of Georgia, has a pecan tree which bears annually from ten to fifteen bushels of nuts, which sell readily at wholesale for four and five dollars per bushel." Col. Stuart, of Ocean Springs, Miss., who has made a wide reputation as a successful cultivator, says:

"I planted these large paper-shell pecan nuts when I was fifty-seven years old, and now, at sixty-nine, I tell you they help me to live. I got one hundred and seventy pounds from one tree last fall, sold one hundred and five pounds for one hundred and five dollars, and planted the remainder of them, and have raised a fine lot of young trees, which are for sale. Pecan culture, planting the very large nuts, I consider one of the safest and best-paying industries a man can engage in." This combined cloud of witnesses and figures certainly does make orange growing and tobacco growing seem much less tempting. The pecan forests in Texas furnish large quantities of pecans to the markets of New Orleans, whence they are shipped to Europe, where they are sold to bring a higher price than any other nut.

DEBORAH'S BROWN HAIR.

Thirty-seven years ago, says the Boston Traveler, a Yankee fishing skipper of Vinal Haven, Me., named Solomon Marshall, was courting Deborah Sholes, of Upper Port La Tour, N. S. While at her home he had begged a lock of her beautiful golden brown hair. During the succeeding winter, which he spent at his home, he received the news that the young lady of his heart had turned fickle and was allowing another the honor of her company to village merry-making.

In his despair he and a friend named Colby, who was afterwards killed in the war, loved a three-quarter inch hole into a white birch tree then about five inches through, put the hair in and drove home after it a pine plug. The next summer he went back to Nova Scotia and married the fair Deborah, in triumph over his rival, and brought her to the States, where he afterwards died. He never thought it necessary to reclaim the hair, and there it remained for year after year, the tree waxing large and strong, and covering over with its white wood and paper bark the "treasure" taken hid in its bosom. Last winter Mr. Edwin Smith, who now owns the old Marshall farm, cut the tree for firewood. In splitting the wood the ax happened to lay the tree open exactly on a pine plug, with a lock of beautiful hair behind it. The outside end of the plug was covered by three inches of solid wood, which consisted of thirty-seven annual rings. The hair and plug are now in possession of Mrs. Margaret Turner, of Isle au Haut, Me., the sister of the heroine of this little romance, who is now Mrs. Saunders, of Lockport, N. S.

Unique Autograph Collection.

A wealthy Tenth street merchant has a collection of autographs which for uniqueness has no comparison outside of the possession of modern Gaults or Vanderbilts, says the Philadelphia Record. Everyone of the autographs is worth at least five dollars, and there are upward of fifty thousand of them. He began about five years ago to collect five-dollar bills containing the signatures of the different national bank presidents of the United States. He has now nearly two hundred and fifty thousand dollars tied up in this queer scheme, and declares that his collection is not complete by many thousands of dollars yet. He is willing to give one hundred dollars for a five-dollar bill bearing the signature of Walter Ross Raymond, who was at one time president of a short-lived bank at Oneco, O. For some reason there was only five of the bills issued. No trace of them can be found. Inquiry at the office of the treasurer of the United States develops the fact that they are still floating about the country, if in existence.

Cut Glass for the White House.

At the glass works in White Mills, Wayne county, Pa., there is on exhibition what is regarded as the finest set of cut glass ever turned out in this country. It consists of five hundred and twenty separate pieces, and has been ordered by the United States government for the white house. On each piece of the set, from the mammoth centerpiece and punchbowl to the tiny salt cellars, is engraved the coat of arms of the United States. This work alone has occupied months of time. The total cost will be in the neighborhood of three thousand dollars.
